A Reader in two volumes

Edited by Branko Horvat,
Mihailo Marković, and Rudi Supek

Drawing on a wide range of disciplines and traditions, this work is a careful investigation of the theory and practice of self-governing socialism from the early 19th century to the present. The editors, an economist, a sociologist, and a philosopher, offer here a detailed study that is scholarly, critical, and international in scope.

Volume I is devoted to the historical development and philosophical foundations of the idea of self-management. Volume II illuminates the sociology and politics of workers' self-management and the economic theory and practice of the self-managed socialist economy and firm. Many of the selections appear in English for the first time.

Russian Linguistics

International Journal for the Study of the Russian Language

Editor: A. V. Issatschenko, University of Klagenfurt, A-9010 Klagenfurt, Austria.

Editorial Secretaries: Eva Ritter, Klagenfurt; N. M. Salnikow, Klagenfurt.

Editorial Board: H. Birnbaum, L. Āurovič, A. G. F. van Holk, G. Hüttl-Worth, G. Jacobsson, H. Jaksche, V. Kiparsky, R. L'Hermitte, S. Sverdrup Lunden, J. Marvan, R. Růžicka, G. Shevelov, A. Sjöberg, E. Stankiewicz, B. A. Uspenskij, D. Ward, E. Wedel, W. Witkowski, D. S. Worth.

To date, problems of Russian linguistics have been treated in numerous periodicals dealing either with the Slavic languages as a whole or with general linguistics. Russian Linguistics appears at a time when there is increasing awareness among scholars who deal with the Russian language that an attempt should be made to concentrate the growing bulk of information within their specific domain of investigation. Russian Linguistics will fill the urgent and growing need for a journal specifically dedicated to issues concerning the Russian language. We feel that the importance of Russian studies all over the world justifies the creation of an international periodical that would serve to accelerate publication of timely contributions on all aspects of Russian linguistics and poetics, both diachronic and synchronic.

It is our aim to maintain critical and bibliographical sections which are as comprehensive and up-to-date as possible. Volume 1 will thus contain a bibliographical survey of the publications of 1973.

Russian Linguistics will publish information on international and local congresses, conferences, and symposia, and provide first hand information on the state of our discipline in various countries in the world.

Subscription price per volume of four issues Dfl. 125,- / US $ 50.00, plus Dfl. 12,50 / US $ 5.00 for postage and handling. One volume will be published yearly. Personal subscription price on request.
